NCPSA PRESIDENT'S LETTER

I want to begin by expressing my sincere thanks to all the current and past members of the Executive Council with whom I have had the pleasure of serving for the last 5 years. In particular I would like to express special thanks to our recent former presidents: Frank Trapp; David Thornton; C. Don Livingston; and Dennis Grady. As a result of their hard work, I took over the leadership of an organization that is on very stable footing. My sincere thanks also go to the current members of the Executive Council, especially President-Elect Anthony Gabrielli; Vice President Jim Corey; Treasurer Rebecca Klase; Secretary Ted Arrington; and our site coordinator at UNC-Wilmington Roger Lowery. This group has exemplified the word "teamwork." They have each shared in the challenges and rewards of preparing for this year's conference, and to each of them I want to express my deepest appreciation for all the effort they have put into making this conference a success.

We look forward to seeing you on the campus of UNC-Wilmington on March 14 and 15. For those who have been members of the NCPSA over a number of years, you will note that this year we are going back to a two-day format for our annual meeting. This is to accommodate those attendees who may be coming from the opposite end of the state, or perhaps even further. Rest assured, we will return to the one-day format next year, when the conference will be held on the campus of Greensboro College. We are most excited about our theme for this year's conference: "Civic Education: Building Tomorrow's Citizens." Particularly in light of the looming presidential election, as well as all the developments in technology over recent years that have increased access to political information if not political involvement, we hope for a large number of paper submissions addressing this most significant issue of how we as a society can progress from political knowledge to actually taking political action. The Association is committed to both continuing and expanding our incorporation of student panels (both undergraduate and graduate) into our conference. We believe this is an invaluable learning experience, particularly for those considering a career in academia.

Among the business the Executive Council has addressed this year and will be presenting to the full Association during the general meeting are several by-law changes: formalizing a requirement that any political scientist--whether student or faculty member who participates in a panel or roundtable--should be a member of the Association; that March 1 of each year be set as the deadline to submit membership forms; and adding the host site coordinator to the Executive Council during the year leading up to that spring's conference.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity to encourage each of you who are interested to submit your name for consideration to serve as a member of the Executive Council in the future. Service within the Association provides a wonderful opportunity to meet and interact with colleagues throughout the state. If I may assist you with any matters related to the NCPSA, please do not hesitate to contact me. I hope to see you all in Wilmington.

Sincerely,

Claudia Bryant, Western Carolina University

NORTH CAROLINA POLITICAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION
ANNUAL MEETING, UNC-WILMINGTON, MARCH 14-15, 2008

CONFERENCE THEME: CIVIC EDUCATION: BUILDING TOMORROW'S CITIZENS

Would an authoritarian, autocratic regime be concerned about civic education? You might not think so, but would not this regime want obedient, dutiful citizens respectful of authority? Its Civic Education would be directed toward these ends. So what does Civic Education mean in a democratic form of government? The ends are surely different. In a democracy, we seek responsible citizens, knowledgeable about our institutions of government, our country's history, and willing participants in our society and government.
